Daisy Bell

(bicycle built for two)

Written and composed by

Harry Dacre

Daisy Bell was a Victorian music hall favourite, written and released in 1892 by British songwriter Harry Dacre (a pen name of Frank Dean, 1857–1922). When Dacre moved to the United States, he had to pay import duty for his bicycle, upon which a friend remarked that if he had brought a "bicycle built for two" he would have had to pay double duty. This descriptive phrase so pleased Dacre that he made it the punchline of his song.

2. We will go tan-dem as man and wife, Dai-sy, Dai-sy!

Ped'-ling a-way down the road of life, I and my Dai-sy Bell!

When the road's dark we can both des-pise P'lice men and "lamps" as well;

There are "bright lights" in the daz-zling eyes Of beau-ti-ful Dai-sy Bell! 3. I will stand by you in "wheel" and woe, Dai-sy, Dai-sy!

You'll be the bell(e) which I'll ring, you know! Sweet lit-tle Dai-sy Bell!

Wou'll take the "lead" in each "trip" we take, Then, if I don't do well

I will per-mit you to use the break, My beau-ti-ful Dai-sy Bell!
